Message from Fr. Dave

This past Wednesday I began my assignment here at St. Paul Parish. Many thanks to our parishioners and members of our Korean Community for kindly welcoming me to Delaware City. As I mentioned before, it is the policy of the Diocese of Wilmington to assign "first time pastors" as administrators for the first year with the intention of being made the pastor the following year. I hope and pray that I will be able to serve our parish for many years. Many thanks to Monsignor Brubaker for all the years he served as pastor of our parish.

Since we have not had daily Mass here at our parish for several years, I would like to begin this week offering daily Mass in our church. On an experimental basis, Mass will be celebrated on Monday and Tuesday each week at 8:30 AM. In the future I will be open to hear your thoughts about your interest in daily Mass throughout the week, with your suggestions of days and times. Again, this schedule is not written in stone, but I feel it will be a good start for now.

This Tuesday, July 4th, we as a nation will celebrate Independence Day. Our Mass on July 4th will be a Mass of Thanksgiving for our independence as we give thanks to God for the freedoms we enjoy in the United States of America. I will also remember in a special way at this Mass all those who serve and have served in the military along with the first responders who keep us safe each day. Please consider joining us for Mass this Tuesday at 8:30 AM.

Have a blessed and safe holiday this week!

Don't forget to pick up a copy of your Dialog, on your way out of church today. In the edition you will see: a salute to seven diocesan priests celebrating jubilees, an article on what's it like for a priest to pick up and move from one parish to another, a preview on a young man from a local parish planning to attend World Youth Day in Lisbon, and more.
